ADMINISTRATION SCORED ON LATIN AMERICAN STAND

To the Editor:

The American public is being shown the most vindictive setup ever seen in the political history of our nation, namely the machinations of the present administration in the Latin American sphere. The years of hard work by dedicated men to establish a workable Latin American good neighbor policy has been poured down the drain and subverted over the past eight years. Reports by the CIA have been consistently ignored and business as usual people be damned has been the hallmark of the present administration's Latin American policy.

Why the lag between the time it became obvious to all that the Castro regime was becoming a Soviet satellite and the belated establishment of a formal embargo? Why was Castro permitted to fill the sugar quota when it was known our American dollars were being used to purchase war material behind the iron curtain? Just more proof of business as usual?

If we are drawn into a war over Cuba, and it's extremely likely, the ousted Republicans will start to scream "Democrats have embroiled us in another war." Isn't it a fact, full responsibility for such a war must be shouldered by the 1952-1960 Republican administration and its short-sighted do-nothing foreign policies?
